Germans Declare Faith In Allies

BERLIN (AP)—President Heinrich Lübke was reported to have told Gen. Lucius D. Clay Monday that the German people have full confidence in the firmness of their Western Allies on Berlin and Germany.

At the same time, informants in the West German capital of Bonn said Soviet Premier Khrushchev has indicated he may not rush through his separate peace treaty with East Germany.

Bonn informants said Khrushchev told Belgian Foreign Minister Paul-Henri Spaak in Moscow last Tuesday he is not committed to sign a treaty before the year runs out.

Ask Overthrow Of Convictions

PITTSBURGH (AP)—A former state senator and three other men asked the Pennsylvania Supreme Court Monday to overthrow their convictions in an alleged Beaver County highway kickback scheme.

Counsel for Samuel G. Neff, the ex-senator, Robert Yoho, Leon Kaleta and James Macry, all of Beaver County, requested an arrest of judgment or a new trial.

Dist. Atty. Richard P. Steward of Beaver County opposed the request. The court took the case under advisement and will give a decision later.

The appeal was one of several heard as the Supreme Court opened its fall session for the western district.

Episcopalians Score Statement

DETROIT (AP) — Episcopal Church delegates pointedly declared Monday that the National Council of Churches doesn't speak officially for their denomination—without its specific say-so.

They also called for a full-scale inquiry into the council's procedures, pronouncements and representative system.

However, in a turbulent three-hour session, the Episcopal House of Deputies decisively beat down moves to gag the council or to pull the church out of it.

The action still is subject to concurrence by the convention's other legislative chamber, the House of Bishops.

"We're reminding the Christian world that we are not governed or spoken for by any group, the national council or otherwise," said the Rev. Samuel Steinmetz Jr., Trenton, N.J.

"We're simply saying, 'take it easy,' in speaking for the Episcopal Church."

Adenauer Thinks Of Retiring

LONDON (AP) — Chancellor Konrad Adenauer, 85, told a British TV audience Monday night he is thinking of retiring. "I have no intention of having four more years. I have had enough," said the West German leader.

The chancellor was featured briefly in the TV news program "Panorama," broadcast weekly to a British audience of millions. He made his reference to retirement after being asked how long he would stay in office if re-elected chancellor.

Dilworth Fined For Parking

PHILADELPHIA (AP)—Mayor Richardson Dilworth Monday paid a $3 fine for a parking violation. The mayor's secretary, Cliff Brenner, said the mayor's auto had been tagged for being parked in front of the Dilworth home at an hour when parking was prohibited.

Brenner explained that the mayor had called the garage where the car was parked and asked that it be driven to his home. An attendant parked the car in front of the Dilworth home a few minutes before the 8 a.m. to 6:30 p.m. parking curfew was over.

The ticket was written during a police crackdown on parking violations.

BERLIN TUG OF WAR—A 77-year-old woman is literally caught in an East-West tug of war as she tried to escape from East to West Berlin. An East Berlin policeman holds her arm while a West Berliner grabs her legs as she dangles from second floor window of house at Bernauerstrasse, on border of city's Communist-controlled and Western sectors. ## Ford UAW Offer Not Satisfactory

DETROIT (AP) — Ford Motor Co. offered the United Auto Workers Monday virtually the same economic package on which the union settled with General Motors Corp.

UAW President Walter P. Reuther conceded Ford's offer follows broad outlines of the GM settlement, but added "the details are not satisfactory."

Reuther declined to discuss specific details with which he was unhappy, but said: "There are several things the Ford Motor Co. can do, ought to do, and we will insist they must do."

With final wrapping up of a GM agreement Sunday night, the union reiterated it expected an improved offer from Ford, and it has International Executive Board authority to strike if demands are not met.

The Ford offer—second in the Big Three 1961 negotiations in the auto industry—came Monday as GM slowly picked up headway in car production after a crippling two-week strike.

The strike, based on local plant issues, closed virtually the entire operation of the world's biggest manufacturing firm, employing 350,000 persons.

Chrysler has yet to make an offer to the UAW.

Ford's offer, covering 165,000 hourly paid workers in 85 plants, was made to a union negotiating team headed by UAW President Walter P. Reuther.

The UAW estimates its package deal with General Motors gives workers more than 12 cents an

Hear Testimony In Tauchyn Trial In Accident Fatalities

A PHILADELPHIA toxicologist testified yesterday that following an accident last April 28, the blood of John Tanchyn, 42, Scranton, showed an alcohol content of two-tenths of one per cent and that that much would be sufficient to impair his ability to operate a motor vehicle safely.

Dr. Frederick Rieders, chief toxicologist for the City of Philadelphia, was the final witness in the first day of Tanchyn's trial before Judge Fred W. Davis in Monroe County Court on two charges of involuntary manslaughter.

Cars driven by Tanchyn and Llewellyn F. Andre, 49, of Stroudsburg, RD 3, collided head-on on Route 611 about four miles north of Stroudsburg at 11:25 p. m. last April 28.

Mrs. Anna Evans, 48, of 878 White St., Arlington Heights, was pronounced dead at the scene. Andre died in Monroe County General Hospital three hours after the crash.

A jury of seven men and five women will resume hearing testimony this morning.

Others testifying yesterday were John Williams of East Stroudsburg, a medical technician at Monroe County General Hospital, who took a sample of Tanchyn's blood when he was admitted for treatment of injuries; Dr. M. J. Leitner, hospital pathologist, who forwarded the blood to Dr. Rieders for testing; and Frank Ruane, a bank employee, who testified he saw a man he believed to be Tanchyn in a tavern prior to the accident.

Dr. E. T. Horn, of Tannersville, testified to the treatment he provided for the injured at the accident scene.

Eastburg State Allowed $1,479,132 For Construction

EAST Stroudsburg State College will receive all of the $1,479,132 in construction authorizations for the General State Authority signed by Gov. David L. Lawrence over the weekend. Rep. Van D. Yetter, Monroe County Democrat, yesterday issued a breakdown showing that $145,584 will go to the college for a new boiler room; $110,064 for a men's dormitory; $93,692 for air conditioning for the library; $93,692 for kitchen renovations; $56,000 for planning and design of a women's dormitory and $89,100 for planning a combination field house and classrooms.

Contracts for the latter two projects are expected to be awarded this year, Yetter said.

Broad Disarmament Plan Presented By President

UNITED NATIONS, N.Y. (AP)—The United States gave the United Nations a broad new disarmament plan Monday with a new idea—that the atomic powers agree at the outset not to shift control of any atomic weapons to any other countries.

President Kennedy outlined the plan to the General Assembly in a wide-ranging 38-minute speech. The U.S. delegation handed the details to the U.N. secretariat to be passed around to the 99 countries in the assembly and on the Disarmament Commission.

Kennedy proposed that disarmament negotiations, broken off by the Soviet Union 15 months ago, should "resume promptly and continue without interruption until an entire program for general and complete disarmament has not only been agreed upon but actually achieved." He suggested they work on the new U.S. plan.

The President said the plan would proceed gradually under international inspection "until it has abolished all armies and all weapons except those needed for internal order and a new U.N. peace force." "And," he added, "it starts that process now, today, even as the talks begin."

He challenged the Soviet Union "not to an arms race, but to a peace race, to advance with us step by step" to full disarmament. He said the new program included these proposals:

"First, signing the test-ban treaty, by all nations. This can be done now. Test ban negotiations need not and should not await general disarmament talks."

"Second, stopping the production of fissionable materials for use in weapons, and preventing their transfer to any nation now lacking nuclear weapons."

"Third, prohibiting the transfer of control over nuclear weapons to states that do not own them."

"Fourth, keeping nuclear weapons from seeding new battle-grounds in outer space."

"Fifth, gradually destroying existing nuclear weapons and converting their materials to peaceful uses; and"

"Finally, halting the unlimited testing and production of strategic nuclear delivery weapons, and gradually destroying them as well."

These points were elaborated in a 2,700-word "declaration on disarmament" containing a three-stage U.S. outline program for "general and complete disarmament in a peaceful world"—the bulk of the documentation submitted for U.N. distribution.

The third point had never been proposed formally before. It would bar the United States, the Soviet Union, Britain and France from handling control over any nuclear weapons to countries now without them.

U.S. sources said that whereas the United States had previously put forward each stage of its disarmament proposals as a package on a basis of take it all or leave it, that government now is willing to single out the part about no nuclear weapon transfers, or any other part, and sign a separate agreement on that. One of them said the new disarmament plan is "one of the boldest, one of the most far-reaching, one of the most comprehensive" ever advanced anywhere.

The last previous U.S. disarmament scheme was proposed June 27, 1960, in a 10-nation East-West disarmament committee negotiating in Geneva. The five Communist members walked out without waiting to hear it, disrupting the negotiations.

The new plan dropped two ideas in the 1960 plan—that of progressively reducing military budgets and that of setting up a zone of aerial and ground inspection in an area including the United States and the Soviet Union.

Congress May Adjourn After Prolonged Session

WASHINGTON (AP) — Senate leaders clutched vainly for adjournment Monday on the congressional merry-go-round. They drew an unwanted brass ring giving them another day's ride, at the least.

Senate Democratic Leader Mike Mansfield of Montana announced Tuesday's session will start one hour earlier, at 11 a.m. instead of the usual noon, in hopes of winding up the session Tuesday night.

Mansfield gave up any thought of adjourning Monday night after he was blocked in an effort to speed action on the last big bill awaiting disposition—a $1-billion supplemental appropriation measure financing scores of miscellaneous government programs.

Sen. Winston L. Prout, R-Vt., objected when Mansfield asked for unanimous consent to waive the rules and bring the bill up immediately. Under the rules the bill could not be considered until Tuesday.

Under that schedule adjournment late Tuesday would be the best the leadership could aim for. While the supplemental money bill held the key to adjournment, there were other items remaining to be disposed of.

One of these was the foreign aid appropriation bill which has passed both the Senate and House but in differing amounts. The House voted $3,657,600,000 for the program and the Senate added $339 million to this figure. Senate and House conferees were trying to compromise the difference.

Another last-minute money gap apparently was closed when Senate and House conferees agreed on a public works measure carrying funds for flood control, navigation and reclamation projects. The bill also carries money for the Atomic Energy Commission. The House had voted $3,662,701,380 and the Senate raised the figure to $3,940,926,880.

Official Says UN Secretary Approved Action In Katanga

LEOPOLDVILLE, the Congo (AP)—A U.N. official said Monday day Dag Hammarskjöld approved the recent military operation against secessionist Katanga and the troops' orders came from U.N. headquarters in Leopoldville, not from the Congo government.

"It would be wrong to assume that we acted in Katanga without the approval of the secretary-general," Michel Tombelaine told a news conference. "There were so many cables at the time that I could not say who signed the actual go-ahead."

Tombelaine, a Frenchman, is second in command to Conor Cruise O'Brien, an Irishman, in the civilian U.N. setup in Elisabethville, Katanga's capital. He denied that O'Brien, whom Katanga President Moïse Tshombe has accused of trickery, was personally responsible for the U.N. troop movements Sept. 13 that set off an eight-day war.

Hammarskjöld arrived in the Congo that day.

An aide who traveled with him told newsmen at Leopoldville Airport the U.N. chief had heard of the fighting when his plane reached Accra, Ghana. Hammarskjöld died in a plane crash on a peace mission five days later.

The French U.N. official reported that on the civilian side the plan to take over key points in Elisabethville and expel Katanga's white mercenaries was first cleared with the U.N.'s Leopoldville headquarters—"I spoke with Khari and Dr. Linner," Tunisian diplomat Mahmoud Khari, head of U.N. civilian operations in the Congo, negotiated with Tshombe for the cease-fire that went into effect last Wednesday night. Dr. Sture Linner, a Swede, is chief of all U.N. activities in the Congo.

They contended that they would have to dig 10 to 12 feet in front of their properties to make these connections. They felt that this would be excessive. They also stated that they understood that in other sections of the community property owners would only have to dig nine feet.

M. A. Eways, of Mast Engineering Co., assured the residents the matter would receive complete consideration.

Michael Garofalo of 986 Pennsylvania Ave. requested that some 200 feet of sewer main be laid on Tenth St. near his property. The authority agreed and instructed the engineer to make the necessary plans.

Eways informed the authority the contractor is ahead of schedule and tests on the machinery of the disposal plant would be made within a week.

Upon his recommendations the authority made plans to connect Bangor's second ward as soon as the plant is ready.

Plans also were made to make the collections of front foot assessments at $5 a foot, and the $50 connection fees. These collections will be made in the near future from residents of the Second Ward.

Kennedy Warns UN On Destructive War

UNITED NATIONS, N.Y. (AP) — President Kennedy solemnly challenged the Soviet Union to a "peace race" Monday and warned the 99 United Nations that unless men now quickly learn to control their weapons and their quarrels they may shortly destroy themselves.

The next 10 months are crucial for the future of the world, he said.

The President on his first appearance here evidently sounded

—Speech Highlights—

IN HIS speech before the United Nations Assembly yesterday, President Kennedy presented five major areas in which cooperation was needed to insure world peace. The solemnity of his general remarks was augmented with the bold program he presented to the assembly of nations as a path to peace rather than world destruction.

Perhaps no leader of a major nation had ever before raised such a doomsday cry in such a great international forum. It supplied the main theme for everything he said about specific problems:

—He asserted the United States has "the will and the weapons" to fight against Red aggression and in defense of freedom. But he pledged himself to seek a peaceful solution of the Berlin crisis. He indicated readiness to accept temporarily the division of Germany between West and Communist rule.

—He proposed a six-point U. S. disarmament program and called on the Russians to help get negotiations started promptly. To a burst of applause he said: "The weapons before they abolish us."

—He summoned the nonaligned nations who hold the balance of power between Russia and the Allies to reject Russia's "troika" proposal to replace Hammarskjöld with a three-man board. That would create anarchy, paralysis and confusion, Kennedy said, and would "entrench the cold war in the headquarters of peace."

—He pressed Russia to sign with the United States and Britain immediately a treaty banning nuclear weapons tests under international controls. Such a treaty said Kennedy is "the logical place to begin" disarmament.

—He recommended that all U. N. member nations start earmarking and training forces for a U. N. "peace-keeping" force, a kind of world police force. U. N. peace-making machinery also must be strengthened, the President said, and the peace-commitments of the U. N. Charter should be extended to outer space before the cold war gets there.

Wayne And Pike Counties Excluded In Reorganization

NEWFOUNDLAND — The school districts of Wayne and Pike Counties are not being subjected to pressure for reorganization into a district of 1,400 students as are those of nearby counties, said Leland J. Cramer, principal of Southern Wayne Joint School, a delegate from northeastern Pennsylvania to the Pennsylvania Association of Chief School Administrators.

The recently passed bill now getting a great deal of attention in Harrisburg excludes seventh and eighth class counties. Wayne is a 7th class district and Pike an 8th class.

Representing 12 counties as delegates to the PACSA executive meeting in Harrisburg, Cramer heard PBI Dr. Ralph Swan speak on the bill which calls for jointure of districts to include a minimum of 1,500 students.

"This is primarily a planning bill," he noted.

Southern Wayne Joint School became a part of the Wallenpaupack Area Jointure this year and the Western Wayne Jointure was formed as a direct result of state pressure toward larger school districts.

Southern Wayne high school will remain open until the new joint school near Hawley is completed in 1963. The Western Wayne jointure is now in operation with two high school centers, one in Lake Ariel and one in Waymart.

Monroe County is one of the counties in the state which is designated for reorganization under the states' streamlining of education proposal.

Algerian Police Battle 400 Youths

ALGIERS, Algeria (AP)—About 400 youths held police at bay for more than three hours in the center of Algiers Monday night, blocking traffic, stoning police and military trucks and tearing up sidewalks.

It was a battle of maneuver and the mood of the participants varied from jocular to serious. Several times riot police and soldiers charged the demonstrators and sent them scotching up side streets. But each time the mob reformed to taunt the police. Massive traffic jams built up along busy arteries.

One explosion was heard—apparently from a grenade—but there was no indication which side had used the weapon. The police and soldiers were backed up by an armored car and a water cannon. Tear-gas bombs were fired to disperse the mob, but no firearms were used.

"We shall be remembered either as the generation that turned this planet into a flaming pyre or the generation that met its vow to save succeeding generations from the scourge of war." Kennedy devoted more space to disarmament than any other single subject although on that he had no essentially new techniques or commitments to offer. He did introduce changes in the timing of disarmament steps which Kennedy aides said were very significant. He also underscored the determination of the West to fight for Berlin, if necessary.

"The Western powers have calmly resolved to defend, by whatever means are forced upon them, their obligations and their access to the free citizens of West Berlin and the self-determination of those citizens," he said.

To Dye Or Not To Dye

Dear Abby: Will you please explain why blondes get so much attention? A blonde can't walk into a room without turning every male head her way. She can be the flooziest looking blonde, but they still look! I am a "good girl," but my hair is rather drab. I guess you could call it dishwater. I have been seriously considering dyeing it blonde. Tell me, where do "good girls" go when they dye?

DISHWATER

Dear Dishwater: When a "good girl" dyes, she goes the same place a "good girl" who doesn't dye goes. Psychologists (and ad experts) tell us that YELLOW is the most arresting color of all. But who wants to get arrested? Stick to the natural tones.

Dear Abby: I have been going with this fellow for two years. He has spent over $2500 on rings, appliances and other gifts in anticipation of marrying me. Well, I have decided that I don't love this guy. It is getting hard for me to let him kiss me, but I hate to hurt his feelings.

My mother has advised me to return his ring, keep everything else he bought me, and to break up with him. Some of my friends say I should return everything he gave me and call it quits. What should I do?

South Sterling Resident Training Indonesians In Maritime Field

By PEGGY BANCROFT Record Correspondent

SOUTH STERLING — The first year of a four-year stay in Jakarta, Indonesia, has ended for Commander Andrew Dressler, South Sterling, who is one of eleven officers sent to that young island country in August, 1960, by the United States Merchant Marine Academy at Kings Point, New York.

The Americans are under a contract with the United States International Cooperation Administration to help Indonesia develop a National Maritime Academy which will turn out 150 well-trained graduates a year by 1965.

For many centuries, the wealth of these islands, which are known as the East Indies, was carried to the rest of the world in Dutch ships. The East Indies became independent in 1949, and, following a massive Dutch withdrawal three years ago, Indonesia was left with only the remnants of a merchant fleet and very few adequately trained officers.

A Ministry of Shipping and a Maritime Academy were established by the new nation, but there were no well-trained officers to take over. Indonesia continues to rely on foreign officers to man her ships.

At the request of the Indonesian government, United States Maritime officers began to arrive in the Summer of 1959, and a study of the existing academy was made. An administrative staff and faculty are now being trained in Indonesia and through a system of fellowship study in the United States.

The revised curriculum, based on a 2½-year course, is designed to produce a third mate or a third engineer capable of sailing on any ocean on ships of any tonnage. Requirements for admission have been raised, and a date $300,000 worth of materials, ranging from books to diesel engines, have been ordered for the academy. At full capacity, the institution will accommodate 300 students.

Life in Jakarta is not all work for Commander Dressler and his family. They enjoy sailing on their cutamaron, one of the latest sailing vessels in Indonesia. On Sundays and during any other free time, the family soaks in the coral beds. An outboard motor insures their safe return home in the event that the winds die suddenly, as often happens.

The local family includes Commander Dressler; his wife, the former Marion Schwaeger, of Ambler; and their two sons, Drew, who is 18 and a student at the University of Australia; and David, who is 11.

Andrew Dressler is one of five children. His younger brother, Frank, of Philadelphia, is a junior executive in the Delaware

Mt. Pocono Rotary Hosts Daniels Today

THE ROTARY Club of Mt. Pocono will be host to Elmer J. Daniels, governor of district 741 of Rotary International today at 6 p.m. when he makes his official visit. He will address the club and confer with president Eric Danisch, secretary Albert Stets and committee chairmen on Rotary administration and service activities.

Daniels is controller of the Weiler Brush Company of Cresco, chairman of the Barrett Township Planning Commission and Vice President of the First National Bank of Newfoundland.

He was elected as a district governor at Rotary's 52nd annual convention in Tokyo, last May.

He is one of 269 district governors supervising the activities of more than 11,000 Rotary Clubs which have a membership of 500,000 business and professional executives in 123 countries throughout the world.

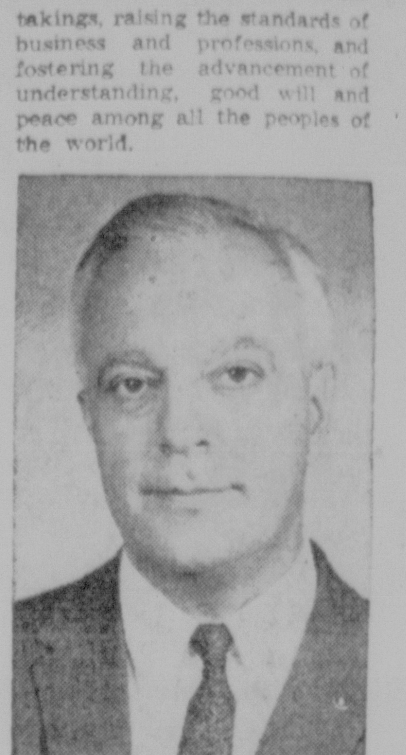

Wherever Rotary clubs are located, President Daniels asserted in discussing the governor's visit, their activities are similar to those of the Rotary Club of Mt. Pocono because they are based on the same general objectives — developing better understanding and fellowship among business and professional men, promoting community-betterment understanding, raising the standards of business and professions, and fostering the advancement of understanding, good will and peace among all the peoples of the world.

Most of us are prone to consider the Pennsylvania State Police as the watchdogs of traffic violations because we are all wary that infractions of the law in this respect are the closest to home. As we ride the roads, we are on the alert for the white cars that patrol all over the state and keep the motorist in line.

Actually, however, traffic control and highway safety are only a small portion of the work of these men. True, it is probably the most known phase of their work, but only because it is the phase with which most of the population are familiar. The average person is not a real criminal, and traffic violations are the only things in which he tangles with the law.

The scope of the work of the Guardians in Gray, as we choose to call them ranges all the way from just helping folks in trouble to tracking down hardened criminals, murderers, thieves and the like. In each of the areas where there is a station, there are trained police working on criminal investigation at all times—but their work only shows when the news of the apprehension of a criminal hits the headlines of a newspaper, all too seldom without proper credit to the forces behind it.

There are, too, other areas in which these men serve the people of the Commonwealth and visitors. We have seen them at drownings, when the Trooper was the only one on hand to administer first aid and resuscitation. When there is a fire in rural areas, they are among the first on hand to render assistance to volunteer fire companies and back them up with the arm of the law.

The Pennsylvania State Police was originally organized as a roving patrol to cover special situations in the state, and to provide police protection in rural areas. Since the instigation of the force early in this century, following the shameful riot and bloodshed accompanying strikes in the coal regions, the State Police have grown in stature and scope so that today this group of devoted public servants well warrant the title of our comment—Guardians in Gray.

The Pennsylvania Story

Harrisburg—While things may be "going to the dogs" up at Mansfield State College in Tioga County insofar as the construction of dog houses for the college president is concerned — they also seem to be "Go-Karting," in a manner of speaking.

It seems that in addition to building a delightful breeze-conditioned dog house for the president—with state materials, state employees, on state time and on state property—others too have been taking advantage of this "state-free" give-away program.

At Mansfield State College they also build Go-Karts—those junior-size putt-putts with a gasoline engine on the rear. This project was started a couple of years ago but never quite finished.

Undertaking the project this time was the superintendent of grounds. Again state supplies and materials were used—but the project was worked on by his own time, rather than state time. The Go-Kart however never quite reached the final state of completion.

And then there is the case of the shoe cabinet . . . You can buy some rather neat shoe cabinets for a few bucks—already made.

But this spring, down came the word for college employees to build a shoe cabinet for installation (where it is now) in the college president's residence.

The special shoe cabinet is a foot deep, about 20 inches wide and five and a half feet tall, with five shelves — and shelf edges are faced with moulding to eliminate rough areas. After being built, the thing was sanded and given three coats of paint, then hauled to the president's residence.

Again, the entire project was done on state time, with state employees, on state property and with state materials.

The point in all this: between the dog house (with TV antenna), the Go-Kart, and the shoe cabinet — there are three variations; variations though that seemingly have a close tie in with the incident of the college employee fired for "malfeasance" when he glued together two of his own personal chairs and made a rung out of a piece of scrap wood—on his own time.

After learning of the incidents, we discovered that the Pennsylvania State Employees Council had interceded in behalf of the fired employee—without success, and that following a hearing, requested by Council Director Antonino A. Fiorello at which time the dog house, Go-Kart and shoe cabinet incidents were brought up, an appeal was taken to the state jurisdiction agency, the Department of Public Instruction. That was at the end of July. To date Council Director Fiorello has heard nothing regarding the appeal to the department. Now he has asked the Department of Justice to intercede and investigate.

Residents of Hamilton Township gathered to discuss the construction of a new elementary school in the district. The meeting was held in the Odd Fellows Hall in Scioto.

The newly equipped kindergarten in the Ramsey School was opened with an enrollment of 31 children.

Principals of local schools went on record to support a youth center to be operated in the American Legion Memorial Hall in East Stroudsburg.

Robert Christenberry, a resident of Shawnee, was appointed head of the New York State Boxing Commission.

Donald Hamilton, of Newton, N. J., was seriously injured when he crashed his car into two utility poles, a tree and tore apart a fire hydrant on Dreher Ave., Stroudsburg.

Stroudsburg High School was offering many free courses to residents of the area in their new night school program.

How many remember in 1931 when the covered bridge across Pocono Creek was replaced with a new concrete bridge?

Brooklyn Dodgers won their first pennant in 21 years by defeating the Boston Braves 6-0.

We think it is interesting to note that college business manager Theodore J. Spentzas insists the three items—the dog house, the Go-Kart and the shoe cabinet — are classified as "state property and will be retained on the college campus." He also advises that "it is quite likely that we will utilize these items in other operations on campus. For instance, we may use them in dramatic productions or for other college purposes."

Usually "props" for dramatic productions are built or acquired as needed—but perhaps all this is part of the "new look" for Pennsylvania's 14 state-owned state colleges!

The whole thing sounds somewhat ridiculous and absurd from beginning to end, complete with goof-ups and obvious attempted cover-ups.

Is this an indication of perhaps more far-reaching things going on at state institutions that may or may not be on the borderline?

A heavy look-see by the Lawrence Administration (the Legislature can't—it's out of session now) via the State Department of Justice is more than in order.

Under the circumstances, other firings may also be warranted!

The Allen-Scott Report

By Robert S. Allen and Paul Scott

Washington, September 26: Uncle Sam must point his finger at seven citizens each time he calls two draftees to the colors.

Of the five the government is now rejecting, three are being turned down for physical defects. The other two can't qualify for the armed services for mental reasons.

This draft rejection rate is more than double that of World War II. Also it is increasing each year.

That's the shocking new evidence of American softness that members of the House Appropriation Committee uncovered in quizzing top Selective Service officials about the Administration's draft plans.

Under pointed questioning by Representative Mike Kirwan, D. Ohio, Col. William S. Iliff, Assistant to the Selective Director, told the committee that 735,000 persons would have to be examined in order to recruit the 196,000 draftees that are needed for the Berlin crisis.

"How many do you have to call up before you get the 196,000 that you need for the Berlin crisis?" Kirwan demanded.

"We will call up 755,000 in order to get 196,000," replied

Colonel Iliff. "This is shocking!" exclaimed Kirwan. "I would like to see the figures for World War I and II. That will give us a good idea of whether we have gone soft in America."

"The World War II rejection rate was less than 40 per cent or less than half the current rate," replied Colonel Iliff. "The rate in World War I was even lower—I believe about 30 per cent."

"Can you break down the 1961 rejection percentage as between physical and mental?" inquired Kirwan.

"It is about 40 per cent mental and 60 per cent physical," answered Col. Iliff.

Representative Kirwan, shaking his head in a gesture of hopelessness, turned to another committee member, saying:

"There must be something very seriously wrong when you have to call 755,000 to get 196,000 to carry a gun. Lord help us. There's no need for the enemy to drop an atomic bomb. All he need do is take over."

Note: In 20 years as head of Selective Service, Lt. General Lewis B. Hershey has inducted 13 million Americans into the services.

No Policy Change — The Kennedy Administration now is more cautious about trade with the Communist bloc, but no basic change in the control policy is in sight unless Premier Khrushchev orders a blockade of West Berlin.

President Kennedy has told his Cabinet that he wants to keep the pipeline between East and West open.

The only shipments that are now being vetoed are exports that contribute to Red war making potential. All other exports are being cleared by the Commerce Department.

Starting next month this Red bloc trade policy is going to be put under a searching congressional spotlight.

Representative Paul Kitchin, D. N.C., heads a special subcommittee that is undertaking "a full and complete investigation" of the export control system.

One of Kitchin's first investigative projects will be to examine the trade between a New England firm and the Soviet Union. This firm, which is partially owned by a former U.S. Senator, is doing a wide open business with the Soviets.

Send ten cents to Office of Technical Services, Commerce Department, Washington, 25, D.C., and ask for "SB-463—Protective Shelters."

Small Business Administration loans at a special four percent interest rate now are also available to small firms in all areas designated by the Government as Redevelopment Areas. Formerly, such aid was available only to firms in areas with "substantial unemployment" as designated by the Labor Department. To find out whether you're located in such an area, write to Area Redevelopment Administration, Washington, 25, D.C. . . . Governor Frank Morrison, who spearheaded the development of the "wheat bar" for survival purposes, is telling aides of President Kennedy that his Agriculture researchers have perfected a "milk bar." The milk bar, which is about the same size as the one and a half inch "wheat bar," can be stored for more than two years and then used. Civil Defense officials have told the governor that they are interested in using both of the new products in their program. The two survival rations, which also have attracted the attention of Food-for-Peace officials, are ready for production. Any interested manufacturers can obtain the formula "free" by contacting Governor Morrison at his office, State Capitol, Lincoln, Nebraska.

The Name Was Earned

More than 15 years ago this newspaper proposed that the Bear Creek Dam along the upper reaches of the Lehigh River be named for Rep. Francis E. Walter in recognition of his tireless efforts to win support for flood control projects in Eastern Pennsylvania.

Last summer the House of Representatives agreed. It approved a bill naming the now completed installation for which Walter was so largely responsible in honor of the veteran Northampton County congressman.

There has been hearty approval up and down the line except in the Senate. There action is being blocked in the Public Works Committee by the objections of Sen. Hugh Scott, Pennsylvania Republican. He fears that to name the dam for the Democratic legislator now rounding out 30 years in Congress might serve political purposes.

Mr. Scott should note, we think, that in the district Rep. Walter represents and elsewhere in Pennsylvania both Republicans and Democrats are aware of the House member's efforts on behalf of flood control and other legislation. His skillful work in winning approval of the Delaware River Basin Compact is the most recent example.

Whether the dam is named for Mr. Walter or not is not likely to win or lose him a single vote if he should change his mind and stand for re-election. To continue opposing it for unwarranted partisan reasons could have a somewhat different effect on Mr. Scott.

Trials Are Troublesome

In the record of the General Walker case appears the following paragraph of a statement by the Acting Judge Advocate:

"Although the file does . . . contain an overall indication of Hatch Act and related violations, the detailed evidence in this respect is not developed, and it is noted that many of the witnesses, at the time of the investigation, were already claiming recollection difficulties. It is obvious that any trial for such violations would be a most difficult and prolonged undertaking, fraught with intense and emotional publicity, certainly unfavorable to the government, at least in part. A conviction would be by no means a certain result, and even if a conviction were obtained the sentence would probably amount to not more than a reprimand in view of General Walker's brilliant combat record and sincerity of purpose in attempting to fight communism."

This is, indeed, a curious argument. A trial would be costly, as all trials are. It would be embarrassing as most trials are. It would develop mass emotions which such trials do. Also there is no guarantee of conviction. Therefore, admonish General Walker, smear him; make him appear to be a madman; but keep him on the job. Apparently there would be no excitement and no publicity. Surely whoever conceived this childishness after 922 pages of testimony was taken from 40 witnesses and 229 exhibits were introduced, deserves to be taken out of a position where he can ruin men of valor. How is it possible to maintain the morale of our armed forces if such cases as that of General Billy Mitchell, General Douglas MacArthur, General Walker are examples set before officers?

Senator Harry Byrd thought that the 922 pages of testimony in the General Walker case be made public. Senator Byrd said that the public should know about it.

According to Secretary of Defense McNamara:

"There are, to the best of my knowledge . . . no restrictions other than, I think, the restriction that any responsible officer of our Military Establishment would recognize a restriction of good judgment and restraint in a period of tension and crisis in the world."

But, to the best of my knowledge, there are no specific written instructions.

If that is so, how is an officer to know what is permissible and what is verboten? If a general is required to indoctrinate his troops against the enemy, what is he not to say? What is good judgment about Karl Marx, Stalin or even Khrushchev?

Did General Walker exceed his responsibility and authority? It could not be if the testimony is correct. The Secretary said:

"The responsibility for the training of the troops is with the local commanders. They are given considerable latitude in developing specific training programs to fit the needs of their personnel and their environment.

"What I have to say will be somewhat more general in character and might respond directly to your question because these programs will vary rather substantially as between commands and as between services."

In other words, General Walker could use his own judgment within the margins of good taste. However, it was brought out that speeches with foreign policy implication go to the State Department for approval. How is it possible for a military man to give his troops an anti-Communist indoctrination course without saying something negative about Soviet Russia or Red China? The censors in the State Department are Philip H. Burns, Director of the Office of Policy Plans and Guidance, who reports to Assistant Secretary of State Roger Tubby. The theory of this operation is that military men may talk out of turn, might say things which could do harm, particularly during a period of delicate negotiations.

But the question must arise as to who does the censoring. Is the censor a competent person? Is he himself sufficiently informed to censor a man like Admiral Burke, for instance?

This question was brought to a climax when Senator Thurmond asked:

"To what source do you turn to determine the scope of foreign policy?"

Secretary McNamara has described sources as:

"The men who have the responsibility for reviewing my public speeches and the public speeches of other civilian and military officials of the department, utilize, among other materials in determining whether these are in accordance with national policy, the National Security Council directives, the Joint Chiefs of Staff directives, the statements of the President, the statements of the Secretary of State."

But such material is not likely to be available to every military man who is called upon to make an indoctrination speech. He is more likely to get his information from newspapers and magazines, from general reading. If the government seeks to engage in indoctrination courses, these should be correctly arranged and correlated and not left to each man to decide for himself. If it is left to each general officer, then he should not be punished for reaching conclusions different from those of the State Department or Pentagon censors.

Just Between Us —

—By Bobby Westbrook

Having left you with the impression of the International Airport in a state of suspended animation at 5:30 in the morning, it seems only fair to tell you that it did wake up. By 6 the giant began to stir; attendants trickled back to their air line booths, the arrival times lit up on the board upstairs, and the coffee shop started perking.

With the news that "our" flight would be two hours late and a substantial breakfast, things took on less of a nightmare quality. The sun came up and from the observation deck we could see planes warming up and coming into land.

Then the BOAC flights came in — three of them — but we were thwarted in trying to recognize passengers by a new mechanical monster — a sort of "passenger picker." Two huge arms wheeled out from the two-story-high corridor with great grindings and wheezings — then like a telescope (or a mechanical octopus) they lengthened out section by section to clamp on the hatchways. Without ever touching foot to ground or breathing a breath of un-air-conditioned air, the passengers disembarked.

Armed with our passport photo and her name on a lettered sign, we hustled back to the balcony overlooking customs. There, for an hour, we inspected the arriving luggage as it was opened and played a guessing game as to which one might be our little English girl.

We had several false recognitions. A girl of about the right age, and general description would glance up and start waving frantically. We'd wave tentatively back until she started throwing kisses when we'd realize it was to her family or sweetheart standing behind us.

We finally connected, however, and triumphantly met her at the door. By this time, hollow-eyed, disheveled, and light-headed from relief, I'm afraid we weren't very impressive representatives of the American people.

But neither was New York City very impressive — not when you approach from Brooklyn, cross the city on 34th St. with its littered sidewalks and dingy buildings. Only looking back from the ramp outside the Lincoln tunnel could we see the famous skyline floating in the morning sun. But by that time it was too late to undo the mischief.

However, I think the ride home was more disillusioning for us than it was for her. Ordinarily, with one eye on the speedometer and the other on our watch, most of us don't really "see" the country on our trips to New York.

Now, trying to see it through her eyes, we were appalled at the scenery. Lining the whole route almost to the gateway of the Poconos, are honky-tonks, billboards, used car lots, discount houses and roadside stands.

No wonder foreigners who seldom get more than 50 miles from New York get such a peculiar impression of us. It's almost like a blight spreading out from the city. We quarantine for tree blight and beetles; and we'd better hurry up and try to quarantine road blight or we'll never be able to take a deep breath when we get near home, never be able to point proudly and say, "Now, this is the real America."

The third annual College Night, sponsored by the Monroe County Council of Parents and Teachers, has been scheduled for Thursday, Oct. 26 and will be held at the Pocono Mountain Joint School, Swiftwater.

Fall Program Projects Set By Grace ULCW

The schedule of Fall activities and projects were studied at the opening meeting of the United Grace Lutheran Church held at the home of the president, Mrs. Menton Field.

A mission study workshop will be held Oct. 2; an Inner Mission rally on Oct. 8; the third annual convention of the Eastern District of ULCW on Oct. 19; and a mission study workshop sponsored by the district on Nov. 6.

Projects for the group were explained by Mrs. Leona Mery, representative to the Monroe County Council of Church Women: World Community Day will be observed Nov. 3 when school bags and supplies will be provided for children of Latin America. Another project, Christmas stockings to be sent to patients at Allentown State Hospital by Nov. 30, was explained by Mrs. Helene Mery, also a representative.

Mrs. Field named the following chairmen: education, Mrs. Dorothy Eilenberger; offerings, Mrs. Ethel Kishpaugh; Christian service, Mrs. Patricia Shively; membership, Mrs. Alma Nichols.

The date has been announced early so that parents and students interested in information about college tuition, entrance requirements, scholarships and fields of interest may reserve that night.

This year's college night plans are being made by a committee with Mrs. David Nelson as chairman; Mrs. John Black, hospitality; Walter Melnikoff, program; Mrs. Lester Katz, public relations; and area guidance counselors Miss Suzanne Hackenberg, Raymond Serfass, James Werkheiser and George Webb.

The Wyckoff Shopper

"The Friendly Store"

A.B. Wyckoff

Laura Halliday really surprised me when she appeared at my office door a few minutes ago to welcome me back, and tell me that, just about the time I was in the hospital, she was there also, having a baby daughter.

Actually, I do not see the vocational homemaking supervisor of our Monroe County Schools frequently, our meetings usually being confined to that period during which our annual homemaking fashion shows are planned. But I certainly had never guessed she was contemplating a leave of absence and motherhood, or that either of these things had been accomplished. Now Laura is back on the job, and very happily so, though she admits missing Bonnie Lynn terribly during the day.

Like any other proud mother, she produced several pictures from her wallet, and I must say Bonnie is as pretty as her name; as round and bright as a holly berry. Before very long, she will probably be shopping Wyckoff's with her mother, and riding the Old Gray horse in our children's department.

While talking with Mr. Wyckoff, Sr., on the Main Floor this past Friday, we were joined by General Manager J. L. Kerlin, looking rested and well after an absence of some weeks. The Kerlins have just returned from Cleveland, N. Y., and a meeting with their new-and-first grandchild, Lantz Bella.

If Jess Pierson, manager of our Sears-Roebuck store, is wondering what Mrs. Pierson would appreciate for a birthday, anniversary, or Christmas gift, we might mention that she's very much taken with a stunning, large gong of etched brass that just arrived in our gift department, and is ticketed at 19.50. I don't blame her — it's a handsome thing, complete with long-handled wooden "gonger."

The many local people who have met Terri Mayer, during her frequent visits to Shawnee Inn, where she presented fashion shows for David Crystal and other manufacturers, will be delighted to know her latest promotion in the world of merchandising. When I first met Terri, she was fashion coordinator for David Crystal, and kind enough to leave Shawnee early on a Sunday morning to do a taped interview with me at WVPO. Later, she left that firm to take an even more important post with a major merchandising office. Now, according to the New York newspapers, she has been named coordinator of junior fashions for the J. C. Penney Co. Those who know her will agree it couldn't have happened to anyone better suited or more charming.

Jane Layton of our Wyckoff domestic department is soon to be married, and members of her department solicited all of her store-wide friends for a gift donation. Then, instead of selecting something she might not choose for herself, all of the money was transformed into a huge colonial bouquet by Blanche Mackey. Until you've seen a bouquet of pink satin roses with 5.00 bills for stems and leaves, you haven't seen anything! Jane was delighted. She tells me there was enough money in the arrangement to pay for flooring the kitchen and bathroom of her newly built home in Shawnee.

If I were a travelin' gal, there's one thing I'd surely manage to have — one of the good looking, vastly roomy Totables being sold in our luggage department for 10.98 and 14.98. Fashioned of U. S. Naugahyde, a product of the U. S. Rubber Co., they are fully zippered and waterproof. The 10.98-ers have either an inside or outside, separately zippered compartment to hold everything in the beauty and grooming line a woman might wish to carry; the 14.98-ers have a removable zippered case inside for this purpose, as well as an outside zippered compartment for easy access to cosmetic essentials. See them today if you're planning to travel, or to gift an itchy-footed friend.

Annual Scholastic Powers Face Tough Task In '61

By FRED WALTERS
HARRISBURG (AP) — There may not be too many new faces showing up in the 1961 Pennsylvania scholastic football parade of champions.

On the other hand, it appears the perennial powers will have to scrap a little harder to hold their places this year.

There seems to have been a general leveling of ability around the state this year.

If we were pressed to pick one team as a standout in any section, the only clear choice so far would be Central Dauphin, a suburb of this capital city.

The Rams, a power the last few years, have breezed past three opponents, the most impressive victory a 24-6 affair last Saturday against William Penn of Harrisburg. It was thought that Penn would provide much tougher opposition.

Too Young

The season is too young in the southeastern sector to get a line on the outstanding teams, although Pennridge, Ridley Township, Lower Merion and Neshaun (despite its 13-7 loss to Easton last Friday) have started out strongly.

A comparative measure of the teams may be forthcoming this weekend when Neshaun plays Allentown Allen, a team Pennridge whipped, 21-8.

In the Northeast—From the Lehigh Valley to the New York state line—Easton once again dominates. But both Allentown schools appear stronger than they've been in recent years.

Wilkes-Barre Meyers of the Wyoming Valley may be headed for another conference championship. Hazleton is having a big season and looks like the best bet for the East Penn championship.

Around Scranton, football prestige sank over the weekend when West Scranton was upset by Allentown Allen 19-13. It looks like a lean year in the East Penn northern division.

Sunbury's 14-13 squeaker over favored Berwick gave new hope to the resurgence of football progress in that Susquehanna Valley school. Its upcoming matches with Pottsville and Coal Township, two East Penn powers, will be telling.

Sayre appears to have the Northern Tier honors all to itself.

Victory String

Farther west, Lock Haven has kept its string of victories going through its first three games of the season. In the West Penn Conference, Chief Logan and Huntington are the principal contenders.

Beaver Falls, defending WPIAL-AA champion, has survived its first two tests of the conference campaign. As usual, there are a spate of early season contenders with Farrell, Johnstown, Charleoi, Clairton, Bar-Brack, Monessen, Uniontown and Wilkensburg among the front runners.

Franklin, in Section II; Grove City and Hickory Township of Section III; Erie East and Erie prep of the Erie County Big Seven; Clarion of the Southern Conference; Sheffield in the Allegheny Mountain league; Fort Leboeuf and Northeast of the Erie County Conference, and Kane and Bradford among the independents dominate the scene at the moment in the northwest.

Sportsmen Assn. Slates Meeting

NO MATTER how deep the snow kets this winter, members of the Pocono Mountains Sportsmen's Assn. will be prepared for their errands of mercy in the woods.

At the meeting of the association on Wednesday night at 8 at Powell's Restaurant in Mount Pocono, they will order snow supplies, including snow shoes. Since snow shoes come in sizes and weights to fit individual members, the officers have asked all members to attend so that the orders may be filled out.

The general public interested in the project is also welcome to attend.

Total Scores
The Fraternal Order of Police shot 20 rounds at 20 yards and 40 yards each. Their total score was 2787.
The local archers shot 20 arrows at both 20 and 40 yards and amassed a total score of 2803. Last year the police won by four points.

A regular meeting will be held tonight at 7:30 at the club house. All interested in joining the club are asked to attend. The local range is approximately two miles west of Stroudsburg on Route 209.

Death Claims 2 High School Grid Players

NEWARK, N. J. (AP) — Ralph Blount, a 17-year-old football player for West Side High School, died Sunday night, 24 hours after he collapsed following a game Saturday afternoon.

Authorities at Beth Israel Hospital said Blount suffered a burst blood vessel in the brain. He died at 6 p.m.

The game was played in 90-degree heat.
Blount, a 6-foot, 210-pound senior tackle, collapsed shortly after the team returned by bus from the field where the game was played.

SWAMP'S COTT, Mass. (AP) — David Coughling, a 17-year-old Swampcott High School football player, died Monday in Lynn Hospital.

Cause of death was not given. When the youngster was admitted Saturday, he was listed as suffering heat prostration.

The boy became ill while returning from Andover where his team defeated Andover 14-8.
Coughling was a 190-pound guard.

Maris Has Some Doubts About Hitting 60th HR

By JACK HANDB
Associated Press Sports Writer
NEW YORK (AP) — Roger Maris and the New York Yankees return to Yankee Stadium Tuesday night for the last five games of the season with Maris still looking for that magic No. 60 in the home run race, Maris hit his 59th last Wednesday in Baltimore.

Although Babe Ruth's all-time record of 60 set in 1927 is safe through edict of Commissioner Ford Frick because Maris failed to tie or break it in 134 decisions, he still can set a mark for the longer schedule. Because of the expansion to 10 clubs, the American League is playing 162 games this year.

Oriole Opposition

Baltimore will provide the opposition Tuesday night and Wednesday afternoon. After an off day Thursday, the Yankees will finish up at home with Boston Friday night and single day games Saturday and Sunday.

Manager Ralph Houk gave the team a day off Monday before they start tuning up for the World Series opening Wednesday, Oct. 4, at the Stadium, presumably at Cincinnati.

Maris still is feeling the pressure of the home run race. Day by day his chances of becoming the first man since Ruth to hit 60 homers grow slimmer and slimmer.

"The way things are going I don't even think I'll hit 60 by the end of the season," he said Monday. "Right now, I'd have to say the odds are against me, even though I've got five games left, all in New York. My only hope, it seems, is to wait for them (pitchers) to make a mistake. But can I? I just don't know."

Redlegs Are 'Two' Shy Of Pennant

CINCINNATI (AP) — If the Cincinnati Reds win the National League championship on their own, they'll have to do it against the two clubs that have caused them the most trouble this season.

The Reds, who have the "magic number" of two—Cincinnati victories and/or Los Angeles defeats—to clinch the pennant, will meet the Chicago Cubs at Chicago Tuesday and then will close out the season with three games at Pittsburgh Friday, Saturday and Sunday.

Meanwhile the Dodgers have six games remaining with Pittsburgh, Philadelphia and Chicago. The Cubs, although buried deep in seventh place, hold a 12-9 margin over Cincinnati for the season. The Reds finally squeezed ahead of Pittsburgh on the season series last week when they swept a pair of games with the dethroned champs, but the margin is only 10-9.

Paret In Return Title Go With Griffith Saturday

NEW YORK (AP) — Emile Griffith has blossomed from a fair puncher to a knockout slugger in the past year.

In his two world welterweight title fights, the Virgin Islands native has scored two knockouts. He won the crown by knocking out defender Benny (Kid) Paret of Cuba in the 13th round and stopped Mexico's Gaspar (Indian) Ortega in the 12th round last June 3.

On Saturday night, Griffith, 23, will give Paret a return title shot at Madison Square Garden in a television 15-rounder.

Prior to the two title fights, the always-top-conditioned Griffith had scored only seven kayos in 22 fights.

Punch Ambushers
Both Paret and Ortega had been known for their ability to absorb a punch. Paret never had been floored before, and Ortega, who had fought the best welters and middleweights, never had been stopped.

So why the turnaround for Griffith? How did the power develop?

"I'm more relaxed and not as anxious any more," said Emile. "And I listen more closely to Clancy."

Griffith has unlimited confidence in Clancy, a junior high school physical education teacher.

"Clancy told me I could knock out Paret," said Emile, an articulate and ever-smiling youngster. "I didn't think anyone could knock out Paret. When he went down and stayed down in the 13th I was really surprised. Clancy just said 'didn't I tell you?'"

"So I wasn't as surprised when I stopped Ortega in my next fight. Clancy told me I could do it."

"I'm always in good condition, and so I'm still strong late in the fight. Before, I used to be very anxious to hit as hard as I could early in the fight. I didn't go to the body too much."

Pen Argyl Edges Cavalier JVs 4-0

PEN ARGYL High School jayvees won their second in a row and East Stroudsburg's Cavaliers, who have yet to allow a touchdown through their line, suffered its first loss last night as the Green Knights eked out a 4 to 0 victory.

The young Cavaliers' loss resulted from two safeties during the fading minutes of the fourth period. The two squads battled fairly evenly throughout the match until the scoring resulted.

Pen Argyl, which was undefeated last year, now claims a 2 and 0 record.

East Stroudsburg's record is now 1 and 1 after clipping Hellertown last week by a 7 to 0 score.

First Safety

The first safety resulted as halfback Carl Nelson faded around his right end to pass but he was tackled by Jim Rodney.

Several minutes later, Cavalier QB Billy Reese attempted a quarterback sneak from his end zone but fumbled the ball. A whole host of Cavaliers surrounded the piskin but Glenn Hoffsmith of Pen Argyl got credit for the safety score as he crashed the play.

The Cavaliers began a late period march from their own territory but only reached the mid-field stripe.

The play began as Eastburg booted an on-side kick and recovered it on their 27. They advanced 23 yards to 50 and lost their opportunity to score as the contest ended.

Next week the Cavaliers travel to meet the Slaters of Bangor at 4 p.m. Monday.
